

-->

For logistic regression,
I have separate test and training data, so I can easily and efficiently test my model output. For the business problem I am dealing with, being perfectly accurate is not a demand.

-->

The resource manager can always intervene and correct the prediction. But since the company is really big, even if a percentage of outputs are correct, by expected value framework, the benefit can be tremendous.
